Dear Colleagues in Education,

The Institute for Education Leadership (IEL) is pleased to inform you about its latest activities and accomplishments.

1. The Strong Districts and Their Leadership: section of the IEL website has been launched
2. The Leading Safe and Accepting Schools (LSAS) webcasts have been posted.

A new section that provides resources to support implementation of the three categories of the Personal Leadership Resources (PLRs) of the Ontario Leadership Framework has been added to the "highlights" section of the website at www.education-leadership-ontario.ca. These resources were drafted by a team of Ontario school and system leaders and were then field-tested in 25 French and English Ontario District School Boards.

To access click on www.education-leadership-ontario.ca and select Personal Leadership Resources and you will find the following three sets of resources:

- Speakers List;
- Case Studies; and
- Interview Questions.

Each resource is available in PDF format as well as in Word Format (click Download Source File for the Word version).

In the future, the IEL plans to reach out to districts to learn how they are using these resources and to invite them to contribute other related resources which can be posted on the IEL website for others to access. In the interim, please do forward any feedback to the IEL coordinator at communication@education-leadership-ontario.ca.

The IEL website offers many other valuable leadership resources with opportunities for you to share your district's leadership resources. To do this visit www.education-leadership-ontario.ca and then click on the APPLIKI link to upload your resources and/or to make use of existing resources. If you need assistance please feel to contact communication@education-leadership-ontario.ca.

The IEL appreciates your efforts in distributing this communiqué to school and system leaders in your district and for drawing their attention to the many valuable leadership resources the IEL provides.

The IEL looks forward to continuing our communication with you.
